AGREED DESCRIPTION OF THE CASE

Plaintiffs, Orlando and Lee Edwards, filed this federal lawsuit against Defendant Chicago Police Officers J. Haritos, P. Park and I. Khan, to recover for alleged injuries from their arrests on March 3, 2008 and subsequent prosecution. The Plaintiffs claim that the Defendant Officers J. Haritos and P. Park violated their constitutional rights by falsely arresting them on March 3, 2008, that J. Haritos, P. Park and I. Khan used excessive force during the course of their arrests and that J. Haritos and P. Park failed to provide medical attention. Plaintiffs further

Defendants deny each of the Plaintiffs' allegations and contend that Plaintiffs' arrests were lawful.

Defendants contend that probable cause existed for Plaintiffs' arrest and prosecution, the force used during the arrest was reasonable and not excessive, and Plaintiffs were not in need of medical care.
